Join free & get daily offer alert (Also work on mobile) Chrome Google Chrome is an open source web browser developed by Google and released on September 10, 2008. The browser's interface, standards compliance, and features are based on the Blink rendering engine. This engine is also used by Google's proprietary Chrome Web Store. Chrome aims to provide a fast, simple, and secure browsing experience, in a desktop-like environment. Chrome OS was originally developed by Google to power the first laptop made by the company, the Chromebook Pixel. The operating system is based on the Android project. Google stopped development of the Chrome OS in February 2014. Since Chrome OS lacks any user applications, Chrome itself is a complete operating system. The browser window is resizable and can host various extensions. It also includes a download manager that saves and downloads files to the Google Drive cloud storage. Google Chrome uses a simple model for tabs which allows users to easily switch between multiple pages at the same time. Search engines such as Google, Yahoo!, and Bing are pre-installed and use their search engine-specific search bars to surf the web. For standard search-engine queries, the web browser can download the results in the background. Google Chrome syncs all Chrome web session between multiple computers via the cloud. This feature is enabled by default
