A charge coupled device (CCD) and a CMOS image sensor (CIS) are used as a digital imaging device that converts an optical signal into an electric signal. The CCD is a device that stores electric charges and sequentially detects electric charges to convert the optical signal into the electric signal. A unit cell of the CCD includes a photoelectric conversion unit and a transfer unit to move electric charges. The CCD has a drawback in that it has a complicated structure in that electric charges need to be stored and transferred at every pixel. The CIS is a device that detects and converts an optical signal into an electric signal. A unit cell of the CIS includes a photoelectric conversion unit and a sampling circuit to perform photoelectric conversion.Q: Modify View values I have been trying to manipulate the name and values of all the views in a view-pager, and all I get is a huge error. Here is the code: In my Activity class, onCreate, I have: setContentView(R.layout.screen); screen is a layout file with 3 LinearLayouts. screen.xml:
